Pteranodon I am called. I’m not a dinosaur,
but I belong to a family. We are flying pterosaurs.
This special group of flying reptiles really is unique,
for we are winged and toothless and we have long, sharp beaks.

Pteranodon, Pteranodon, I’m not a dinosaur.
But fly I do with my family. We’re flying pterosaurs.
I weigh about thirty pounds. I’m small, but look at me, for when my wings are all outstretched they’re twenty-seven feet.

Did you know that Pteranodon did not have a tail? When it flew in the air, Pteranodon had to pay attention to the movements that it made with its wings and body in order to stay balanced.

Now look real close, and notice on my head there is a crest.
Yes, it will grow to six feet long. It really is the best.
I glide around the waters and I search for lots of fish and scoop real low and pluck them out. A tasty little dish!

(Chorus)
